

Local Couple Feted Prior to Departure

Prior to their departure to the States, where they will make their future home, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Davis, were guests of honor at numerous social evenings and surprise parties marking the esteem in which they were held by their many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis have made their home in Wainwright for the past several years, and up to about a year ago, at which time he was promoted off, Mr. Davis was employed as an engineer on the C.N.R. During their stay in town, they have endeared themselves with all who knew them and their hospitality will be greatly missed.

A surprise party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Foran on Tuesday evening of last week for Mr. and Mrs. Davis. About twenty friends and neighbors were present and joined in the many games of the party with real enthusiasm. During the evening the guests of honor were presented with a souvenir tray of the Buffalo Park.

A large number gathered at the Masonic hall on the following evening, (Wednesday), when a dance sponsored by the local Social Credit group of which society, both were faithful members, was held in honor of this departing couple. At midnight Mr. and Mrs. Davis were made the recipients of a handsome tea set of souvenir china. At the close of the dance they were escorted to the train which they boarded amid the good wishes for happiness in their new home.

Be Careful During Shooting Season

With the arrival of the hunting season during which time thousands of sportsmen will make for the woods and marshes to seek their trophies of animals and birds, a few precautions concerning the use of firearms may be mentioned in order to avoid accidents or possible fatalities which may result from the careless handling of guns, particularly in the hands of less experienced sportsmen according to C. K. Howard, head of the Fish and Game Department, Canadian National Railways.

While the hunting season is a time of action in which a series of "don'ts" would seem to defeat the enthusiasm of the sportsman, nevertheless, attention to the possible danger attendant upon the careless handling of such weapons, a little timely advice seems in order, stated Mr. Howard, to safeguard the sportsman and others from untoward injury.

Common among the causes of fatality and injury are: pulling guns through fences; guns knocked down by dogs; unsecured loaded guns in automobiles; accidental firing of guns through bottom of boats, the hunters drowning themselves with the sinking boat; accidental stopping up of barrels with dirt; leaving guns in barrels, such as cleaning rags, rods and the like; carelessness in handling guns by letting them explode with barrel ends under water; sobbing at a moving object without seeing the object clearly and firing at game without looking beyond it in the line of fire.

If the hunter with his gun will keep in his consciousness the fact that he has a weapon of great potential danger and will observe due precaution in handling same at all times, stated Mr. Howard, the hunting season could pass without many of the accidents usually attendant upon the hunting activities of the fall season.

Fatal Accident Saturday Night

Shutled to the road from her mother's lap when her father's truck in which she and her parents were riding struck a bump in the highway, Mr. and Mrs. George Germann's 21-month-old daughter was killed instantly late Saturday night near their home south of Edmonton.

One rear wheel of the heavy truck passed over the baby's head. Her father took police he had to swerve his truck suddenly to avoid a grain truck heading in the opposite direction. His truck's door flew open when they hit a rut in the road, and the child was thrown out.

Coroner Dr. H. Wallace of Wainwright said no inquest was needed.

Threshers Have Narrow Escape

A threshing crew on the farm of Mr. J. J. Eyben, had a narrow escape from injury, when the fly wheel of the tractor weighing nearly 150 pounds, broke loose and flew over the grain separator, a distance of approximately 100 feet. Another piece of the machine also came loose and flew in the air for some distance before landing in the midst of the workers. Fortunately no one was hit.

Special Service At Pres. Church

One of the largest congregations of the season was present at St. Andrew's (Pres.) church on Sunday last to take part in the annual Harvest Thanksgiving service. Rev. W. S. Brooker, pastor of the church, chose the topics for his sermon, at both morning and evening services, in keeping with the occasion, and these were thoroughly enjoyed by those present.

The church was very tastefully decorated with flowers, fall leaves and harvest fruits and vegetables. Special music was rendered by the choir at both services.

At the close of the evening service the offerings were presented to the local hospital.

The Road Tax vs Tourist Revenue

Those states which would add restrictive tax and highway barrier laws to their legislative enactments, should "Stop, Look and Listen." They might profit from the experience of New Mexico which enacted a caravan law under which the state collected a fee for use of its roads from common carriers and caravans. The law was upheld by the United States Supreme Court and was held up as a model for this type of legislation.

Officials of this southwestern state woke up one gloomy morning a few weeks ago and found out that although their receipts from enforcement of their caravan law amounted to $223,000 for the year July 1, 1936, to June 30, 1937, their tourist business had gone to pot. In addition it cost $55,000 to operate their port of entry system for their new law.

While tourist business was increasing by leaps and bounds in neighboring states, in New Mexico it was down almost one-third for the first quarter of 1937 as compared with the same period last year.

Business men all over the state saw the danger, and conclusively demonstrated that the state stood to lose $20,000,000 which is one-third of its tourist revenue, in order to collect $200,000 in road tax. This was convincing enough argument to discontinue it.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to take this opportunity of thanking the congregation of St. Andrew's (Pres.) church for their kind donation of vegetables and fruit to the Wainwright Municipal Hospital.

Days of Crimean War Portrayed

Just as the great in Tennyson's epic poem volleyed and thundered, this picture "Charge of the Light Brigade" volleys and thunders across the screen.

The idea of the photograph is to establish a plausible, highly imaginative, reason for the immortal charge of the Light Brigade. That end two premises are erected. Both move in an atmosphere of conflict. One is of direct appeal to men; the other hits right into the hearts of women. The two, under the power of intelligent writing, acting, direction and application of amazing production effects, are skillfully blended.

The major locale is India. Brothers Geoffrey and Perry Vickers are officers in the British army. Geoffrey is in love with Elva Campbell, but his long absences on military duty cause her to fall in love with Perry. The manner in which Geoffrey learns of this situation establishes tense conflict as each brother is determined he will win the girl's love.

In India, the fight side by side against Surut Khan, who has been deprived of a financial subsidy, and is treacherously treating with the Russians.

Then a new danger menace England. The Crimean War breaks out. Geoffrey and Perry are ordered there. In the now comparative peace of horror-gloomed India, Elva acknowledges her greater love for Perry. She begs Geoffrey to protect Perry in the new danger. Disobeying orders, actually mutinying, he forges instructions that send the girl back into the jaws of Hell.

The emotionally expected charge a sterling tribute to technical and directorial imagination and execution takes rank with any and all great spectacles ever presented on the screen.

"Charge of the Light Brigade" is the main feature at the Elite Theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week.

Smallest R.R. Line Attracts Visitors

MONTREAL, Que.—Professor William Rowan, who owns and operates Canada's smallest railway company, has left here on Canada's largest railway system, the Canadian National Railway, for Jasper National Park where his "railway" takes in almost the whole of the garden of his summer home.

Professor Rowan, who is head of the department of zoology in the University of Alberta, operates a model railway complete with right-of-way, rolling stock, board of directors and executive headquarters, a short distance from Jasper Park Lodge. Each year a large number of visitors to this beautiful Rocky Mountain resort admire Dr. Rowan's model railway. He is always willing to take them on a tour of inspection of the "Athabasca Viaduct", "Cavell Out", "Maline Gorge", and point out the ingenuity of the company's engineers in surmounting obstacles such as protruding stumps, water cavities, grades and like problems in constructing the Lake Edith Railway Company.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lewis, who have been spending their annual holiday in the States returned home last week.

Link was tabled until the next council meeting with a view of obtaining advice from the Town Solicitor thereon.

Provinces Turn To Paved Roads

Besides being responsible for added dangers to motorists, dirt roads keep the tourists away from Alberta, just as they do possible visitors to other provinces.

Regarding the landscape of dirt roads, the province of New Brunswick has decided to embark upon a highway paving program. Nova Scotia is gradually extending its paved highways and a similar policy is being carried out in British Columbia.

Governments are beginning to realize at long last that tourist business is cash business, but it cannot be attracted if dirt roads have to be travelled.

The farmer, anxious to sell his produce to ready customers, cannot do so because the customer cannot get to market.

Give the farmer of primary produce hard surfaced roads and his market is immeasurably extended. He can take his produce to points where there are higher prices than the local market. He is enabled to take it to centres where tourists are making their purchases. Or if he is so fortunate as to live on a hard surfaced highway, then the cash customer is brought to his door.

That's why the Alberta Motor Association is campaigning for hard surfaced roads, something that will give the producer better prices and will improve general business in this province.

B.C. Salmon on Conducted Tour

VANCOUVER, B.C.—Several thousand British Canadian National Railways on a personally-conducted tour to Great Britain a few days ago in the latest air-conditioned equipment guaranteed to keep their skin in ice intact throughout the long journey.

In the nature of an experimental alignment, the cars being used for the consignment embody the latest ideas in railway transport refrigeration. Traditional ice bunkers at each end of the cars are gone. Instead, the ice containers are located just under the roof, so that cold air will descend evenly throughout. Outside recording thermometers, rigged to show the inside temperature at top and bottom of the car without opening it up, will keep an accurate check on the well-fare of the contents.

Canadian National Railways are co-operating with the Pacific Experimental Station in the important trial shipment under the new conditions. Mr. Otto C. Young, of the introduced under unfinished business Experimental Station, is riding the train with H. Nichols and John Townsend, railway refrigeration experts, keeping the temperature record and watching car performance.

Warner Oland in Mystery Drama

The axiom that age improves things is very well demonstrated in the Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday picture at the Elite. Or the long Charlie Chan series, practically all of which have found a ready market with legions of theatre goers, this latest member stacks up as the best. It attains that status through a good story, good production detail and good acting by principals as well as supporting cast. It is desirable entertainment, the field for which is not limited strictly to the Chan followers.

Mystery, drama, romance and comedy, are incorporated, and there is one novel departure. The redoubtable solver of any kind of crime, Warner Oland, is brought face to face with the master of terror, Boris Karloff.

Although a couple of weird killings occur in the story, which takes place against the presentation of the opera "Faust," Chan's job this time is the responsibility of stopping a more heinous murder. As the film unfolds, he meets his match in the maniacal Gravelle, who, impelled by a jealous fury, returns to the opera to wreak vengeance upon his unfaithful wife and her lover. As drama is tensely keyed, expertly inserted romantic complications serve completely to baffle witnesses, the while the situation is relieved by inclusion of carefully prepared legitimate love interest and comedy. The finale of "Charlie Chan at the Opera" is a nerve-jangling thriller.

Derrick to be Raised Over New Gas Well

Rush orders have been placed by the Ellettsville Oil company for a derrick to be raised over the new well that was struck last week and the structure is expected to arrive shortly so that operations may proceed as soon as further orders are given by head officials. The well is situated some 23 miles northeast of here and has an estimated flow of 50,000 feet of wet gas.

It is believed that the gas, which has a pressure of 190 pounds per square inch, has its source in a heavy oil pipe, has its source in a heavy oil pipe, to reach which, further drilling will be done.

Mr. John L. Graham, engineer in charge of operations at the well, left last week for Toronto to consult with head officials and work has been suspended, pending decisions as to future developments and policies.

A party of seismicograph engineers is now on the property and will report on a likely location for a second well, which, in all probability, be drilled in the near future.

Ontario Lowers Motor Licenses

Motorists in all parts of Canada welcome the announcement made last week by Premier Hepburn, of Ontario, that a reduction of $5 would be made in all passenger car licenses.

With its great number of licensed cars, the Ontario government has by this announcement saved a huge sum to the motorists that reduction. Previously it had made reductions in truck licenses.

The Ontario government has given a lead to other provinces in taking the burden off the motorist. Two long governments have been imbued with the policy of "loading" the motorist.

Everywhere it has been recognized that car licenses were too high, unwarranted levies in this respect being eclipsed only by the gasoline tax.

In this province the Alberta Motor Association and other organizations have made representations against these levies on motorists. If the fees were to be maintained they contended, then the proceeds should be earmarked for road building and maintenance purposes.

In this province the Alberta Motor Association has changed the license year so that it will end on March 31 instead of December 31, which means that more cars will be kept in operation during the winter. With a greater number of cars in operation and increased revenue being provided as a result from the gasoline tax, thought may now be given to reducing the Alberta license fee for passenger cars.

DISEASES OF ZINNIA

Under the climatic conditions of the Okanagan Valley, the zinnia plant grows exceedingly well and produces a continuous succession of large blossoms from the beginning of July until the autumn frosts. The plant is grown without any difficulty and is not subject to many parasitic diseases, but those that do attack it can be destructive.

In some localities powdery mildew attacks the foliage of the plants and may sometimes be troublesome. Should this malady appear, however, it can be easily controlled through the application of either a colloidal sulphur spray or a finely divided colloidal sulphur dust. The fungicide should be applied at intervals of 10 to 14 days as long as the disease is developing.

Occasionally a few plants may be found affected with what is commonly known as stem-rot. The disease is recognized by the appearance of light grey lesions on any portion of the main stem or branches, which become dry and brittle, or of a black rot in the root at or below the ground level. The stem pith disappears in such areas and is partially replaced by round to oval compact, hard fungus bodies. These are white when young, but turn black on the surface as they get older. The disease is readily recognized by the presence of these bodies, which act as a means of overwintering by the fungus. Whenever such plants are found, they should be removed and burned in order to destroy these fungus resting bodies.

In some localities, a wilt disease of zinnias has become so destructive and has killed off such a large percentage of the plants that the cultivation of this attractive flower has largely been abandoned. This disease is caused by a soil-inhabiting fungus that penetrates into the fibrous feeding roots and from there spreads to the main root. The infected tissue decays, and thus, in preventing the normal upward movement of water from the soil, brings on the rapid withering and death of the plant. Wilt usually first appears during the early part of July, after the soils have been warmed up by the hot weather, and continues until the end of the season.

The World of Wheat

By

H. G. L. Strange,
Director, Research Department,
Searle Grain Company, Ltd.

"What with germination, generation, grade, registration and certification, Canadian seed requirements are very complicated."

So said an American friend to me. "I admit that at first glance they do seem complicated," I replied, "but the sale of Canadian grains, particularly wheat, on World's markets, depends upon quality, and these seed classifications promote quality."

"However, you have forgotten licensing," I went on. "The most important requirement of all."

The Canada Seed Act forbids anyone to sell seeds of any variety unless that particular variety has been licensed by the Dominion Government.

Only varieties suitable for use in Canada are licensed; so undesirable hybrids, and those only "just as good," are kept out of country.

In addition, all seeds of any classification offered for sale must have a Seed Control Certificate. This guarantees that the germination is satisfactory, and that the content of seed, or of seeds of other kinds of grains, is no more than is permitted by law.

Neither Control Sample Certificate nor license, however, give any guarantee that the seeds are true to any particular one of the licensed varieties; the seeds offered may be mixtures of licensed varieties.

True to one particular variety in seeds is desirable of course, but is guaranteed in a different manner by Registration and Certification.

Following factors have tended to raise price: Ominous political developments in the Far East and in the Mediterranean — German grain estimates higher last year — Belgian wheat production 15 per cent below a year ago — Late Russian harvests makes slow progress — Indian native crops inferior to expectations — Ground-out season disappointing in Argentina (East Africa).

Following factors have tended to lower price: Rains improve Argentine and Australian crops — Compulsory mix corn or rye with wheat in Portugal — Impossible to get nearby freight in Black Sea — Quality of European crops appears better than in recent years — Texas crop production larger than 1936 — Egyptian barley crop appears satisfactory.

Deposited from the Great Broadcast in a Series by Vernon Knowles for the Chartered Banks of Canada and Delivered Over a Radio-Style Network of Alberta Stations on Tuesday Evening, September 7th, from 10:15 to 10:30, and Wednesday, September 8th, in the Daytime from 1:15 to 1:30.

Opening Broadcast Describes Meaning of Credit ... Tells What a Bank Is ... Outlines Subjects of Further Talks ... Will Discuss Cries of "Monopoly" and Who Owns the Banks

Canada's Chartered Banks, through me, will tell you the facts about Canadian Banks and the banking system in a series of non-political, non-controversial broadcasts of which this is the first. There are many misconceptions and misapprehensions abroad regarding banks and banking. We believe that those who criticize the banks are thoroughly sincere and it is our hope that, as we proceed to present the true story of Canadian banking, we also shall be given credit for complete sincerity.

Certainly there is a widespread intelligence and an inquiring spirit alive in Alberta and a genuine desire on the part of the people at large to obtain the facts. Many important questions have been raised and we intend to supply answers which are truthful and accurate. Intelligent people prefer to have all the facts and then to form their own judgments, so we have good reason for the belief that we shall have lots of listeners.

The explanations that we intend to give in regard to Canadian banking are offered in response to a very evident and definite public demand and I must repeat that we are not fighting, nor resisting, nor affiliating with any political party. Canada's Chartered Banks do not aim at controversy and will present their story without heat or recrimination, for any case that needs abuse of others to support it must be a weak case indeed.

One of the leading questions in regard to banking is, of course, the question of credit. Let us illustrate credit to you briefly, for it is wrongly claimed that we enjoy a monopoly of the right to extend credit. Of course, we do not. We do not have a monopoly, even of banking. Any group of responsible people, in West or East, can start a bank. We shall tell you about that in detail, in a later broadcast. Manufacturers extend credit to wholesalers. Wholesalers extend credit to retail dealers. Merchants and retailers extend credit to customers. Canada's Chartered Banks furnish short-term credit to facilitate production, to move and market that production and to transfer goods and services.

Soon the Alberta farmers will be hauling wheat to the elevators. If they had to wait until the grain reached Liverpool, and the money to come back before they got their cash, it would be a long wait — but bank credit is what enables them to get their cash at the line elevators right away. Individuals lend money to each other — the successful farmer lends money to his neighbour.

Let us take the case of two neighbouring farmers. Harry Brown, we shall say, has $500 in a Savings Account in his nearest branch of a Chartered Bank. A good farmer, William Jones, is a good farmer without ready money, who feels that if he had $250 he could buy hogs, feed them up, sell them and make a little profit; so he goes to Harry Brown and asks if his neighbour will trust him with a loan of $250.

Mr. Brown, knowing that Mr. Jones is a decent chap, and trustworthy, and that he will get his money back with a little "rent" on it, goes to the bank, draws $250 of his $500 and hands it to his neighbour. Mr. Jones buys the hogs, feeds them up, sells them, makes his profit and pays Harry Brown back his $250 with the agreed rent to boot.

If Mr. Jones had not known a neighbour both able and willing to help him, the Manager of his nearest bank would have been found, in the same circumstances, a neighbour on whom Mr. Jones could call with confidence — in other words, he could have got his loan of $250 from the Bank.

It is the deposits such as Harry Brown's $500 that furnish the major basis of Canadian bank credit. Harry Brown is only one of over three million nine hundred thousand savings bank depositors in Canada, who have on deposit in the Chartered Banks the striking total of more than One Billion Five Hundred and Seventy Millions of Dollars. The fact is that the vast sums which are employed in building up this country have their main source in the collective savings of thousands of people in all walks of life, who, through their work and thrift, have been able to build up small deposits.

The average savings deposit in the Canadian Chartered Banks is around $350. At least it was $350 on October 31st, 1936, as shown in an official return to Parliament. These returns are made periodically to the Government and to the Bank of Canada. They are sworn statements by the banker and are made public to Parliament and in the newspapers. If a bank Manager should make a false return, he can be sent to jail. Such penalties are provided in the Bank Act.

How did Harry Brown get the $250 which he has on deposit in the Bank? Let us say he got it by raising wheat. He probably started as a homesteader, wagering his $10 that he could make a success of it and, after three years of hard work, got his patent. This he did; and he earned his $500 by the sweat of his brow, having overcome the early hardships of homesteading.

That $500 was one deposit that did not come from a loan.

When I speak of the hardships of homesteading in this wonderful western land I speak with feeling, sympathy and understanding for myself. In 1909, took up a homestead some seventy miles north from Basano and had to make my way to that homestead, not very far from the Hand Hills District by ox team. That was before the Goose Lake Line of the Canadian Northern, now the Canadian National, was built through from Saskatoon.

I know what drought is, for that year we had no rain and no crop in a considerable area between the Bull Pound and the Berry Creeks. I used to stand on some high land on my place and watch the little rain storms travelling down the Creeks on either side of me, seven or eight miles away, without a drop falling upon the parched piece of ground that I was trying to farm. Typhoid fever, alone on the prairie, with my nearest neighbour miles away, made it physically impossible for me to continue homesteading.

In the West, I feel that I am talking to folks I know. From the homestead I went into western newspaper work, serving as a reporter in Prince Albert, Saskatoon, Regina and Winnipeg; and also as an Editor in Winnipeg; so you see it was on these Western plains that my career had its beginning and so it is that I speak to you not only as a bank official tonight. I speak to you too as one who knows your hardships from the experience of a settler, one who has a real, abiding, sympathetic understanding of the people and problems of this Province.

I do not mention these things by way of boasting. It is my hope that I shall be looked upon largely as one of you. I have found that financiers do not fear the open spaces. Proper, orderly, safe banking, essential to safe-guarding the depositors' funds, is a full-time job; no Bank Manager, or bank executive, can do full justice to his work and find time to stump the country with a view to informing the public. So the presenting of our facts simply, freely, plainly and accurately has become my work. It is wrong to say that banks care nothing about the public's goodwill. It is because they do care that I am here — as an official representing Canada's Chartered Banks.

I have spoken to you about Harry Brown and William Jones, the two neighbouring farmers, and I have told you how credit operated between them. Let me turn to another illustration of Bank credit. I want to tell you a true story which arose in an Alberta town only a few months ago which goes to show how bank credit extended to a merchant benefits the consumer.

I was talking to the Bank Manager in whose branch this circumstance arose and he said to me: "Bank credit helps everybody in this country." Without mentioning any names he told me of a credit of $3,000 extended to a merchant the day before. The banker said to me: "This man wanted $3,000 to meet a number of bills on each of which he would be allowed, by his wholesalers, 5% discount (a saving of $150) if paid before the tenth of the month. I asked him, 'said the banker, 'How long he wanted the money for, and the merchant said, 'Thirty days.' I asked him how he expected to be able to pay it back in the thirty days and the merchant replied, 'Because of this discount and my normal profit I can put on a sale, reduce my prices to the public, attract new customers, create goodwill, get my money out and repay the Bank.'"

Continuing, this Bank Manager asked me — "What is the matter with bank credit there? For a merchant of $15,000 paid to the bank as 'rent' on the money the merchant saves $150 on his bills and passes part of the saving on to the public."

WISH-POWER

The Editor:

Dear Sir: The people of Alberta are being enlightened says the premier.

The power, resulting to a political gang impelled by the faith that what belongs to others can be made its own, can be realized only by a vindictive making of laws. This wish-power when in legal robes can forthwith make that which is physically possible the basis of purchasing power. A and B are all the factors going into the production of utilities.

In fact A and B signifies the total wish-power inherent in the social credit faith—that which is past and future notwithstanding. Numbers were treated symbolically by many ancient nations; thus to the Jews 4 denoted the earth, 7 perfection, etc. To a social creditor $25 per month denotes a unit of wish-power. A larger unit is $75 per month, a still larger unit is $125 per month, but these colossal units are as yet only dimly apprehended by even the most noisy of wish-power advocates.

Wish-power promoters have been brought here from England. They are looking for something good to eat. It has been stated that the starving folk of wish-power is ascribed to by adults with an intelligence development equal to that of a child of 13 years or under. It is a safe assumption, then, that these wish-power engineers must each have a mental development equal to a child of 13 or a little over.

It will hurt Canada if this wish-power, now in its bluish stage of unity, continues to expend itself with selfish intent upon the bonds political and economic which have made us all Canadians. What if old Canada should get loose its wish-power, whatever it be, upon Alberta?

Perhaps this force will soon flow along channels cut in its own clay. The Fudgers of India let it expend itself in personal discomfort such as rolling along the ground from shrine to shrine, sitting naked on a bed of nails, etc. The doughboys give out let to their wish-power by marching naked in groups. The Christians give expression to their faith by doing good to others, and harming none intentionally, at any rate.

Now then, it would be statesmanship, if these English wish-power conductors, instead of conducting this force to mar a nation in the making, would direct it to dissipate itself in acts designed to uplift its votaries; for instance, if a social creditor should feel himself impelled by his quota of wish-power to peculiar nations of acquisition he could run over and lift his zone president or his M.L.A. bodily into the air. And if a M.L.A. should be impelled by his much larger quota of wish-power, to appropriate his indemnity a year or so ahead of the due date he could rush over and lift the premier into the air. The premier has asked that he be acclaimed with warmth and enthusiasm. What, then, would please him more than such lifting spree. If among the fifty odd M.L.A.'s there should be one or two, or perhaps three, who could lift him four or five inches up from the floor, so much more glory to them. They will have accomplished much in putting the magnificent end before the people. And isn't this a much easier performance than applying incomprehensible numbers to unguaged and remote (in the future)

Radio Beacons In West Cities

OTTAWA.—A newly developed beacon has definitely conquered navigation hazards of cross-country flying, radio officials said here and pilots of the Trans-Canada Airways will soon be able to fly through darkness and bad weather in complete confidence they are on their course.

A new wireless beacon is already in operation at Vancouver and next week another will be sending out its signals from Princeton, B.C. Engineers of the transport department are erecting stations at two other British Columbia points, Grand Forks and Cranbrook, and eventually there will be 32 beacons between the west coast and Montreal on the eastern end of the Trans-Canada route. Beacons will be erected in the maritimes when that end of the route is opened. The beacons are radio transmitters sending out high singing notes heard by the pilots in their earphones.

HEALTH

A HEALTH SERVICE OF THE ASSOCIATION OF LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES IN CANADA

THE SPAN OF LIFE

Statisticians are able to prove to us that, on the average, a child born today will likely live to 55 years of age instead of 40 years, which was the case in the middle of the past century. This has been brought about chiefly by better care of infants, a tremendous reduction in the diarrhoeas of children which used to take such a heavy toll of infant life, pure water, safe milk and improved sanitary conditions.

There has not been a corresponding increase in the expectation of life among adults. The expectation of life at 50 years of age is not appreciably greater today than it was during the past century. One interesting point that we learn is that persons who live long come, in general, of long-lived families. This does not mean that a member of a long-lived family is more likely to recover from an attack of an acute disease, but rather that if he or she does escape from an attack of an acute disease, such as those which destroy life in infancy and early adult years, such a person will be more likely to live to advanced years.

Many people have the idea that health work's sole aim is to prolong life. This is only partially true, because the ideal sought is rather healthier years than more years. Because health and happiness are so closely linked together, it may be fairly said that the objective of health work is not to prolong life but to make people happier while they live.

We do not know why some families have what we might call greater vitality and so live longer than the average. We do not know why Old Parr lived to 152 years. It may be, of course, that many years have been added to his life in the re-telling of his story. We do know, however, that to the adult who desires to increase the expectation of years of health, we can say—moderation in all things is essential and, above all, in food. An interest in life must be maintained whether it is in work or in play, such as a hobby. Worry must be cast out as it is the thing which wears out the machine.

CONSUMERS DOLLAR

According to the Department of Agriculture, the price spread between consumer and producer, so far as farm products go, is lower now than it has ever been. Since 1929 the farmer has never received as much as 70 cents out of every dollar the consumer pays, but he is now getting about 45 cents of it, as against 30 cents in 1929. Among the reasons cited for this narrowing of the margin between producer and consumer are reductions of profits of processors and shippers, and the efficiency of marketing agencies.

It is quite understandable that with their profits diminishing, some groups of distributors should be advocating legislation which would, in effect, guarantee them the right to take their toll on every item in transit from producer to consumer. It is less understandable that legislators should listen to their specious pleas. It must be clear to everybody that the more middlemen there are between the farmer and the ultimate purchaser, the less there is left for the farmer.

Credit for simplifying the distributive process and making it more efficient must go, in considerable measure, to the rise and development of farm marketing co-operatives. More than half of the nation's agricultural products now reach their primary markets through co-operative organizations, returning to their farmer members a large part of the revenue formerly absorbed by private distributing agencies. The effort to cut distribution costs still farther should be encouraged.

A NATION OF SMOKERS

All world's records of cigarette production were broken in July, 1937. The Internal Revenue Bureau reports. In that one month the factories of the United States turned out fifteen and a quarter billion cigarettes. That comes to nearly seven packs a month for every man, woman and child in the United States.

On this one month's output of cigarettes the manufacturers paid a tax of six cents for each package of 20, or $3 a thousand. The tax, of course, is included in the price of the cigarettes. Every time a smoker breaks the revenue stamp with which each pack of cigarettes is sealed, he is paying six cents in taxes direct to the Federal Government. On the cigarette made in July, allowing one smoker to each family of four, the tax paid by the average family will come to somewhat more than $1.60. The smoker who consumes the fairly moderate amount of a pack of cigarettes a day, pays $21.90 cents into the Federal coffers for the privilege of indulging in his habit.

The Government's revenue from cigarettes at the July rate of production runs to 45% million dollars a month, or at the rate of $40 million dollars a year. The cigarette tax, next to the income tax, is the largest single source of Federal revenue. The revenue from cigars and pipe tobacco is steadily dropping, also that from chewing tobacco and snuff, but the consumption of cigarettes is steadily increasing.

We are a nation of cigarette smokers.

NEWSPAPERS

"The only time the newspaper weakens, is when those it serves are weak," writes H. G. Moody, editor of the Reading (Conn.) Herald.

Business men and citizens generally should not fail to realize that newspapers are in the public service; that they are not parasites living for their own profits and that the community owes for a newspaper as much as it owes for a policeman or a fire department. No newspaper as a private enterprise, then the public must for its own good tax itself to provide them. Too often we find business men regarding their home newspaper patronizingly as an institution that does them good, and that, because they are privileged to forget it the times are dull and may recall to mind in those richer days when profits are large.

The newspaper is a function, a concordant, representing service in the community it lives in, an integral factor in its development. It is not a motive force in its own right, but it is a worthy of its hire as the judge in his docket, the sheriff in the tax collector. In fact, as an institution, the newspaper is far more embarrassing than any or all, is the completed expression of the daily mind of the community which would have to return to chaos if disorganized society.

Such facts are recognized by advanced persons but sometimes ignored by the ignorant or the indifferent. They aim to keep the newspaper "in its place" by withholding a just tribute. They have their own inferiority complex to deal with and their only object is a kind of self satisfaction that comes from retarding the wheels of progress.

These opponents of printed enlightenment usually demonstrate that they need the inoculation of the very spirit that makes a newspaper. While they are keeping the newspaper in its place, their backwardness will be indicated by their tenacious clinging to outworn practices, outmoded establishments, low conceptions of competitive requirements. Let the community that wishes to step ahead make its newspapers the staunchly supported banner carrier of its forward movement. The newspaper gladly undertakes the challenge to leadership and invariably will push onward against every obstacle.

PEACH JAM

Peaches lack pectin so there are difficulties in making jam. If it is cooked a long time it will have an overcooked appearance and flavour and the product is poor. If it is not cooked a long time the product is thin and watery. The addition of pectin or the combining with pectin fruit is advised.

This recipe is a popular one.

One crate of peaches

One dozen oranges

Sugar

Steam and peel the peaches, remove stones. Put the oranges through the meat grinder and mix with the peaches. Weigh this fruit and cook until soft. Add heated sugar from 1/4 to 1 pound of sugar to one of fruit. Cook until two thick drops form side by side on spoon. Put into hot sterilized jars, seal when cool.

PEACH COBBLER

1 egg, beaten
 3 tablespoons butter
 1/4 cup milk
 1 teaspoon baking powder
 1 cup sugar
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1 1/2 cups pastry flour
 6 to 8 peaches

Add sugar to egg and beat until creamy, add butter and beat again until thoroughly blended. Add flour baking powder and salt, sifted to gether with milk. Put a cup upside down in a baking dish and fill dish 2/3 full of peaches, peeled and cut in quarters. Pour batter over this. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) one hour.

Serves six people.

PASSCHENDALE

Fire broke out at the home of Mr. Joe Dalton last Thursday morning. Mrs. Dalton was alone and could not stop the blaze so she telephoned neighbors who rushed there at once and the fire was soon put out. If help had not arrived when it did the fire would soon have been beyond control and would have destroyed the house.

The Sew and So Club held their meeting at the home of Mrs. Cassar. All of the members were unable to attend on account of threshing. The contest given by Mrs. Muir was won by Mrs. W. Johnson. At the close of the meeting a delicious lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by her granddaughters, Misses Annie and Doris Ford.

Most of the wheat has been threshed in the district and the average is between 5 and 10 bushels per acre. The oats has not been threshed but it is a very good crop. Born to Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Atkinson, on September 3rd, a daughter.

AMONG THE OLD-TIMERS

"REMINISCENCES OF OTHER DAYS"

TEN YEARS AGO

Mrs. A. Linnors left this week to join her husband in Toronto. Her home on Sixth avenue has been rented to Mr. S. Holloway.

Mr. Joe Whittle was busy over the week-end re-shingling his house on First avenue and making other alterations.

Some house-breakers and petty thieves were busy in town over the week-end. Monty's Cash Store was broken into but the intruders were probably scared away before they got anything of much value. The home of Mr. H. Richardson was also broken into, the culprit's gaining admission by the use of a skeleton key while the family was at the show. Quite a number of catfish were removed from the cellar.

Mr. H. Mahy has built a portable grain bin on a wagon body. The mill thrashes into this bin, and by means of levers it is emptied into grain trucks which haul the product to the elevator.

Mrs. Murphy arrived from Saskatchewan last week to keep house for her son, Rev. Father Murphy in his new home—the Plaxton house on Eighth avenue.

Miss Clara O'Reilly, who has been visiting her brothers, Leo, Pat and Tom, left this week for Idaho.

After having spent the last three months visiting in her old home in England, Mrs. J. Callas returned home last night.

Miss Muriel Rowe was the winner of the Confederation school medal for this institute.

Mrs. C. J. Mackay was rushed to Edmonton last week to undergo a serious operation.

Miss Vera Stuart left this week to attend variety in Edmonton.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Mrs. Fred McLeod, who has been ill at her home for some time, was removed to Edmonton last week for specialist treatment.

Mr. Geo. C. Boyd purchased an Overland car from the local dealer this week.

A serious shooting accident was narrowly averted at Baxter lake last Monday morning. Sergeant Beckett of the Alberta Police force and Postmaster McLeod were looking on either end of the bridge waiting for a flock of geese to take off and upon rising from a kneeling position the farmer's gun accidentally went off. The bullets struck Mr. McLeod in the leg, but upon being rushed to town to the doctor, it was found that the wounds were not of a serious nature.

Mr. "Blum" Peterson of the Stuart and Peterson firm in town was taken suddenly ill last week and was rushed to Edmonton where he underwent an operation.

An interesting debate was held in the Methodist church Monday evening by the members of the Young People's society. The topic under discussion was "Resolved that married life was preferable to single life." The affirmative side of the question was upheld by Rev. R. K. Swenerton and Miss M. Peckhold and the negative by Mr. Sam. Lowthwaite and Miss R. Douglas. After a lengthy pondering by the judges, the decision was given to the affirmative side.

Mr. Bill Stuart is laid up this week with a severe attack of rheumatism.

When the torch of the Statue of Liberty was lighted, as many as 700 birds crashed against it in a month.

The Legion Notice Board

We would again remind all interested that there will be an executive meeting on Monday next, September 27th.

It is gratifying to know that censorship has not interfered with the showing of the film of the Vimy Pilgrimage.

There has been at times excessive censorship in connection with King Edward VIII and perhaps there are some things best forgotten. Time works out its forgettings and remembrances in its own way, regardless of what man does or says.

But in the Vimy film, the man who shared the hardships of the men in the trenches, who defied regulations designed for his safety, and who was beloved of all troops, and particularly by the Canadians, has the stellar role, and rightly so. His part in the Great War, like that of his Father and Mother, will never be forgotten. A young man at the time, he who is now the Duke of Windsor, brought from the war those deep, ineffable, and to civilians not altogether understandable impressions which are the men of Flanders Field as someone a bit apart, and with his comrades he shared the muck and filth, the sadness and humor which were born of the trenches.

Canada, with whom his observance of that great memorial day was one of the clearest of the most big act of his tragically brief reign, will see this film with a good deal more feeling than the average film, even of this sort, evokes.

Don't forget the dates of this picture, October 4th, 5th and 6th.

Hints for the Household

Conducted By Betty Barclay

PRESERVE TOMATOES NOW
Now is the time to put away for winter use many delicious tomato delicacies. Tomatoes are filled with vitamins and a tomato chutney or conserve will be greatly appreciated during the cold weather that is to come. Try these two unusual recipes:

- Tomato Chutney
2 dozen ripe tomatoes, medium size, chopped
8 onions, medium size, chopped
5 red peppers, seeded and chopped
1 dozen tart apples, peeled and chopped
1 pound seedless raisins
1 cup celery, cut fine
2 quarts vinegar
3 cups sugar
Salt
1 teaspoon each cinnamon, nutmeg and cloves

Combine the ingredients, and cook in a preserving kettle until the chutney is thick and clear. Stir frequently to prevent burning. Pour into hot, sterilized jars and seal.

- Tomato-Raisin Conserve
2 quarts fresh, ripe tomatoes
2 cups apples, peeled, cored and cubed
2 lemons, cubed
2 pounds sugar
6 sticks cinnamon
1 small piece of mace

(Use spices in cheese cloth bag)
Boil all ingredients, except sugar, until a thick mass is obtained. Add sugar slowly and boil about 15 minutes or until jelly stage is reached, which is when the mass sheets from the side of the spoon. One cup of nut meals may be added to this just before removing from the fire. Pour into glasses and seal.

TOUCH-UP VEGETABLE DISHES
Many of our most common summer vegetables, like carrots, peas, corn and tomatoes may be made up into attractive combination dishes. Do not depend entirely upon salt and pepper to flavor. Use both, but a little sugar will come in handy also—not enough to sweeten but merely enough to accentuate the flavor of the vegetables.

- Baked Corn and Tomatoes
2 cups cooked corn
2 cups tomatoes
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar

- 1 cup fresh bread crumbs
3 tablespoons butter

Mix seasonings with the corn and tomatoes and pour all into a greased baking dish. Spread the crumbs over the top, dot them with the butter and bake in a moderate oven for one-half hour. This is a satisfactory way of utilizing left-over corn or tomatoes.

- Carrots and Peas
2 cups cubed carrots
1 cup cooked peas
2 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour

1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 1/2 cups milk
Boil the carrots until tender. Combine with the cooked peas, reheat and serve with melted butter or make a sauce of the flour, butter, milk and seasonings, add the cooked carrots and peas, reheat and serve hot.

MARY HAD A LITTLE LAMB
Many regard lamb as one of the choicest meats. When prepared in some unusual form it becomes a real epicurean dish—fit for a King.

Lamb a la King
2 cups cold roast lamb, diced
4 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk
1/4 cup small button mushrooms
1/4 cup celery, diced
Current jelly
Salt and pepper
Cut the cold roast lamb into cubes. Cook the celery until tender in the butter. Add flour and stir till smooth. Add the milk gradually, stirring until the sauce is thickened. Then add the diced lamb, mushrooms and celery.

The Facts About Banking in Canada

Reproduced from the Second Broadcast in a Series by Vernon Knowles for the Chartered Banks of Canada and Delivered Over a Province-Wide Network of Alberta Stations on Tuesday Evening, September 14th, from 10:15 to 10:30, and Wednesday, September 15th, in the Afternoon from 1:15 to 1:30.

Tells How Bank Customers Have Been Paid $416,000,000 in Interest in Ten Years... If "Fountain Pen" Could Create Money There Would Be "Land Office" Rush for Bank Shares... Money Not Goods, Only Means for Transferring Goods or Services... Credit is Attribute or Possession of Individual, in Assets and Character... Cannot Be Wiped Out by Stroke of Pen... Next Talk to Deal With Burden of Taxation on Canada's Banks.

IN the last ten fiscal years Canada's Chartered Banks have paid out to customers in interest on their deposits over Four Hundred and Sixteen Million Dollars.

In our first broadcast we told you that proper, safe and orderly banking is based, above all things, upon safeguarding the depositor's funds. We now proceed to deal with the "fountain pen" theory. In my travels I have encountered two great misunderstandings:

1. That the Chartered Banks create money by a stroke of a fountain pen—that is just what figures in a book and that that is the way our deposits come into existence.

2. That we then loan these deposits ten times over, thereby making vast profits out of nothing.

Now wouldn't this be a great perpetual-motion machine if it were only true. I mentioned that in ten years we had paid out over Four Hundred and Sixteen Million Dollars in interest to attract deposits. If we could create deposits by using only a fountain pen we need not have poured out such great sums at all.

You have all heard about bank failures in various parts of the world and of the losses that were suffered by depositors. If it were true that banks could create money, simply by writing figures in a book, all that would be needed to avoid any bank failure would be a fountain pen. And if banks could make such fabulous profits on money produced by magic from an ink bottle they would be paying sky-high dividends, everybody would be selling everything they could lay their hands upon to buy bank shares and there would be a Land Office rush at Ottawa for bank charters. We shall deal with the question of bank earnings and profits in a later broadcast but you will notice in the meantime, that nobody is scrambling to sell all that they own to buy bank shares and there is no Land Office rush at Ottawa for bank charters. Not that there is any difficulty about getting a bank charter when responsible people apply for one.

Now would you not think that if the banks could perform all of the miracles that they are said to perform, some of those who criticize the banking system would secure charters and perform these miracles themselves?

Much of the misapprehension about how deposits arise is based on a fragment taken out of a statement made in 1925 by the Right Honourable Reginald McKenna, Chairman of the Midland Bank in England. That fragment is: "Every loan creates a deposit." From this statement, standing by itself, many wrong conclusions have been drawn. Mr. McKenna is now here in Canada. He was asked in Banff the other day to comment on his much quoted statement. He replied that it was true that a loan creates a deposit but that such a deposit would not be an asset on the bank's books but a liability—a debt which the bank must be prepared to meet on demand just as fast as cheques were written against it.

He also pointed out that every deposit is a liability of the bank—money the bank owes to the depositor and must be ready to pay on the instant.

You will remember the farmer, William Jones, who figured in our first broadcast. Besides being a hard worker and an honest man, he owns his farm and the outfit to work it, and this year he has a crop. However, it is still short of ready cash. We will use him to show you just what happens in this matter of loans and deposits. The farmers in Northern Alberta this fall are having to use power units with their binders.

William Jones finds that he needs one of these units. It is going to cost him, say, $100. This time he goes to the bank and asks the manager of the bank to lend him the money. He gives the Bank Manager his note and his account is credited with $100—here is one of those deposits that has arisen from a loan.

Now let us show what happens to that deposit. Mr. Jones obtained his loan for a purpose. He proceeds to carry out that purpose. He gives a cheque to the implement man—the implement man presents it at the bank and is paid, we will say, in bills—so the deposit which arose from the loan has completely disappeared. A Bank Manager would indeed have to be a magician to be able to lend that deposit ten times over.

Now some listening critic may say: "But suppose the implement man does not cash the cheque. Suppose he deposits it in his own account—that is, he does not lend the loan created deposit." The answer is that insofar as his deposit is concerned, it came from the marketing of his goods—a deposit based on something that is produced, some tangible thing transferred to the purchaser and paid for by him.

This deposit is in the same class as that of a man who saves and deposits a part of his wages. It represents the result of the sale of goods and the wages of labour. These depositors leave their money in the bank because they are satisfied to accept the bank's promise to pay instead of demanding cash. It is the accumulation of these funds that furnishes the basis of bank credit—the basis upon which banks can make loans. But it is impossible for a bank to lend more than the total of its deposits and its paid-up capital.

In the case of William Jones' loan and deposit, by no means under the sun can it be said truthfully that the deposit came from a fountain pen. It rested, absolutely, upon William Jones' assets, the Bank Manager's knowledge of William Jones' integrity and the reasonable certainty of repayment out of the proceeds of his crop. You have all heard that a loan gives rise to a deposit but have you ever thought about what it is that gives rise to a loan? Realizable wealth, character and the likelihood of repayment by the man who wanted to rent the money from the bank, to make a profit for himself.

Let me present another case where a loan does not result in a deposit. Let us suppose the implement dealer himself was a borrower at the bank and when William Jones gave him the $100 which he had borrowed, the dealer reduced his own indebtedness by that amount. What has happened? The total of loans at the bank has not changed—neither has the total of deposits in spite of the fact that the bank has made a new loan to William Jones. What does all of this illustrate? Nothing less than that the bank has fulfilled one of the prime purposes for which banks exist, namely—it has facilitated the exchange of goods and services; it has aided in distribution and it is doing the things that keep business going.

There is one more point I should like to mention and I am sure it is one which has occurred already to many of our listeners. Let us suppose that Mr. Jones, through bad luck, was unable to repay the $100. What then? The bank which enabled him to pay his bill to the Implement Company, cannot recover the loan; in other words, it is a bad debt. Too many bad debts would jeopardize the safety of the depositors' funds. It would take the gross rent on more than sixteen loans of $100 each, at six per cent, for one year, to make up for that one loss.

Now our listening critic may say: "Oh, but in any case you have not enough cash to meet more than perhaps one-tenth of the deposits you hold—so, if everybody called for their deposits all at once, you wouldn't have money enough to pay them. How do you answer that?"

Our answer is that if you will examine the sworn returns made by the banks to the Dominion Government, you will find that in addition to the approximately ten per cent of cash always on hand, there are huge sums in other assets—which the bank owns—of such a nature that they can be converted into cash.

And we answer further, that the whole population is not going to close out its savings accounts all at once.

We answer, too, that banks, by experience, have found how much cash is likely to be called for from day to day. If you have a deposit in a bank, I'll wager that there is many a day—or even many a week—when you do not call for any part of it. You do not put money into a savings account if you have immediate need of it. You put it there because you do not want to spend it. Banks know from practice how much they need to keep in cash to meet the average daily withdrawals. The rest is set to work—some of it as we have said, immediately realizable and the rest in short-term loans or in types of investment which ensure the greatest safety for the depositors' funds.

We answer further, that money is not wealth—it is only a means whereby wealth in goods and services is transferred. Your title deed to your house is not a house; your patent to your farm is not a farm—nor is a dollar bill, goods—it is only a title deed to real goods.

One five-dollar bill is not extinguished the moment one man pays it to another. If Harry Brown buys a hat from Tom Jones for five dollars and Tom Jones buys coal with it from Jack Robinson and Jack Robinson pays his grocery bill with it, there is $15 of business done with one five-dollar bill—so you will see, by these plain illustrations, how people can get along and do their daily business, without having to keep on hand mountains of five-dollar bills.

On a train in Alberta recently I met a farmer who held the idea that banks create unlimited money by writing figures in a book. As I talked to him in the smoking compartment of the day coach I found out that this farmer had lost $800 in a bank failure in another country. With part of the proceeds of his crop he had bought some cattle; the balance—$800—he had put into his bank and lost it when the bank failed. I asked him if he regarded that $800 as simply some figures that somebody had written in a book and he answered: "No, I worked for it." He willingly agreed, then, that labour and the production of new wealth had something to do with putting money in a bank.

Out of the fact that banks in practice keep about ten per cent of the deposits available in cash has been developed the amazing distortion that we lend our deposits ten times over. A bank does not, cannot, create credit nor destroy it by a stroke of the pen. Credit is the personal possession, creation or attrition of the borrower. No bank can create it for him. The borrower creates it himself by accumulation of assets from his own work; by his own character, ability and willingness to repay.

I would hate to try to convince any Alberta farmer or working man, whose savings came from his own production and his own labour, that his Savings Account was created by a stroke of the fountain pen. And I'd hate to try to convince him that the bank's liability to pay it to him in money when he wants it, can be wiped out by a stroke of the fountain pen.

Canada's Chartered Banks cannot and do not perform the miracle of making something out of nothing with a stroke of the pen. There is no black magic, no mystery about the workings of Canada's Chartered Banks. They operate under specific laws, restrictions and limitations which permit them to accept and safeguard other people's money—your deposits; and to lend funds to meet the legitimate needs of communities, individuals, merchants, farmers and others.

In our next week's broadcast we expect to deal with the tremendous burden of taxation at present borne by Canada's Chartered Banks. Watch your newspapers for the announcements. You may obtain a printed copy of this broadcast by dropping into your nearest bank, or you may secure a copy by mail by writing your nearest bank, or you may read it in the advertising columns of your daily or weekly newspapers.

The Facts About Banking in Canada

Reproduced from the Third Broadcast in a Series by Vernon Knowles for the Chartered Banks of Canada and Delivered Over a Province-Wide Network of Alberta Stations on Tuesday Evening, September 21st, from 8:30 to 8:45, and Wednesday, September 22nd, from 12:00 noon to 12:15.

Millions Paid in Taxes to the Dominion Government... More Millions to the Provinces and to the Municipalities...
Alberta's Revenue From the Banks Boosted... Most Branches Operate at Loss... Banks Have Faith in Alberta.

CANADA'S Chartered Banks have paid in taxes, in Canada, during the last ten years $74,301,000.

We promised last week that we would tell you about the load of taxation we carry. Before we get along very far to-night we shall give you a very plain, short set of figures. I would like you to get a pencil and paper to take down these figures when I reveal them to you.

We shall tell you also about our earnings, our profits and dividends. Our critics have been talking a great deal about the fabulous profits we are said to make, but criticism is unfounded. Let me repeat, as I said in our first broadcast, that we believe that many critics of the banks are sincere. We, too, are sincere.

You are often told that the banks should be taxed but we tell you that the banks are taxed, and we want to tell you some things that will interest you, about the taxes we bear.

Now are you ready with that pencil and paper? We will pause for a few seconds so that you may get ready—We are not going to ask you to take down a long list but just a few plain figures—

Well now, are you ready? Here's the story: During the last ten years the banks have paid:

In taxes to—
The Dominion — $22,771,000
The Provinces — 13,268,000
Municipalities — 32,262,000

This makes the sum I gave you in starting this broadcast — a total of $74,301,000, which we have paid in taxes in ten years. The banks do not complain of fair taxation; they expect to bear their due proportion of the expense of running a Municipality, a Province or the Dominion but, because so many people have been led to believe that the banks are not taxed at all, we are telling you of the taxes that we do pay.

Take the case of Alberta alone. This year the Province imposed upon us a new and additional tax of one-tenth of one per cent of our paid-up capital. It amounts to $141,000 this year. Last year we paid to the Alberta Government total taxes of $81,150. This averaged out at $390 per branch. From paying $81,150, in 1936, our Alberta tax in 1937 has been boosted to a grand total of about $222,000, or nearly three times what it was before.

We have told you the story of Provincial taxes. Now we turn for a moment to Municipal taxes. In 1936 the total of taxes we paid to Alberta Municipalities amounted to $258,600. Our total of Municipal taxes in Alberta averaged out at $1,219 per branch.

Let me repeat — the taxes paid by the banks in 1936 to the Province of Alberta alone averaged out at $390 per branch. In 1937 they had risen to an average of $1,116 per branch. And let me further repeat that the Alberta municipal taxes paid by the banks last year amounted to $1,219 per branch. At this rate we are now paying a total of $2,334 per branch in Provincial and Municipal taxes combined, quite regardless of the heavy Dominion taxes we bear. The Provincial and Municipal taxes combined, which are paid by the banks in Alberta, now reach the grand total of $475,600 per year.

And yet, to hear some folks speak, you'd never know that the banks are taxed at all!

Do you know that very few of the bank branches in Alberta are making any profit? We are now going to tell you something that has never been revealed to the public before — we are letting you in on a secret.

Now if you are ready again with your pencil and paper we will give you the actual figures for 1935, the most recent year for which complete figures are available. There were then 221 branch banks in Alberta; only 41 of them made any profit. Seven of the 41 made not more than $300 in that year.

And 180 were operated at a loss. You can figure out for yourselves what effect $141,000 in new and additional taxes has had on that picture.

With all this newly-revealed information I have given you the picture is still incomplete, for you all know that a business such as ours cannot be carried on without some losses. Indeed the net result in Alberta for the ten years 1928 to 1935, is that after providing operating expenses and taking care of bad and doubtful debts, the banks have incurred a very substantial loss.

The money thus lost, I assure you, did not drip from the end of a fountain pen.

You may ask — "Then why do the banks continue to operate in Alberta?" We answer: "Canada's Chartered Banks have faith in Alberta's future and in the people of this Province." We feel sure that the period of hardship and drought will pass. The West has had a terrible struggle during the last seven or eight years. I remember the time, and many listeners must remember it too, when this Western country produced an export wheat crop of three to five hundred million bushels a year, when prices were high and marketing conditions were good. For years the West had, roughly speaking, from Three to Five Hundred Million Dollars in new money coming back into this country from the marketing of this newly produced wealth. Then, through fear of war and other conditions, the countries in Europe started restricting their wheat imports and growing their own. World markets collapsed. Canada's banks did not do it; fear in Europe had much to do with it. And after that came the succession of heart-breaking dry seasons that our farmers have endured. You and I know what that has meant to Alberta. It has meant that for about seven years in the Great Central Plain of this Province and for almost ten years in the South, farmers have had either no crops or poor crops, which in any case result in the same thing — little or no money.

Canada's Chartered Banks had no more to do with the collapse of the markets in Europe than they had with bringing on the drought.

The real basis of hardship in this Province, as in the other Western Provinces, is that this great annual crop of new money has not been coming in.

Canada's banks, by any miracle of lending, could have made it come in you can be sure we would have done so; for it is by lending that we live. That is our business. The banks are a part of your community. While you suffer we cannot prosper. I have shown you how few branch banks in Alberta make any profit and how many are losing and, on top of these losses, as I have shown you, we have an increased tax burden to carry.

Alberta audiences are intelligent — they are alive to questions of economics. Remember our responsibility to safeguard the funds of depositors. When we are losing money, if costs are increased by steep advance in taxes, what then? The alternative is either to pass on to our customers these added costs or steadily close out losing branches to a point where ends can be made to meet. Either way is a hardship to our customers and an inconvenience to their communities.

Now we turn to the matter of earnings. It is a popular misapprehension that because we pay one and one-half per cent on savings deposits and because, on the other hand, the highest interest rate we can charge by law is seven per cent, the difference between the one and one-half per cent and the seven per cent is all "velvet" — alright. Let me point out to you why it is not so.

We have costs: I am sure that all of my hearers are aware that no business can be carried on without costs. We pay wages. In the Province of Alberta alone during the past year we paid $2,015,000 in wages to employees. We pay rent on premises. We spend money for stationery, printing and postage. We buy water, fuel and light. We pay the enormous taxes that I have spoken to you about. We contribute heavily to pension funds and to group insurance for employees. Depreciation on bank buildings takes a large sum each year. We have also to set aside a substantial amount each year as a reserve for bad debts.

In addition to our costs there are distinct restrictions on bank earnings. Only a relatively small proportion of our loans earns the legal maximum of seven per cent. Let me tell you about these restricted earnings.

Banks must keep themselves in such a position that anybody going to the bank to withdraw his savings can get his money. We are required by statute to deposit with the Bank of Canada, earning nothing at all, a certain percentage of our depositors' funds. In addition it is necessary to keep in short-term investments a further amount upon which the yield is low. Why is this yield low? Because the bonds in which these funds are placed will mature at short date. Cash reserves of other companies as well as those of Chartered Banks are looking for this sort of investment — the type which can, of course, most readily be turned back into cash. The demand for this type of investment is great and the supply none too plentiful; therefore, the price is high — which is another way of saying that the earning — the yield — is low. The costs of doing business, coupled with restrictions in earnings, eat up most of the difference between the one and one-half per cent we pay and the seven per cent which it is wrongly supposed we earn on all our loans.

Let us take a little instance of the earnings on a loan. Let us say a farmer borrows $100 in April, expecting to repay in the fall — say a six months' transaction. If the interest is seven per cent the gross amount of rent on this money paid to the bank is $3.50 — in other words the farmer has used $100 for six months at a rental of $3.50; but what does the bank receive net? Not $3.50, but a matter of cents only. We have taken a six months' transaction for illustration. The rate of profit is no greater if the loan runs longer. Why? Because the costs we mention are running on all the time, too.

Last year's net earnings of the Chartered Banks on all of their business everywhere amounted to only one-half of one per cent on total assets and in previous years approximately the same. What commercial business or enterprise gets along on so narrow a margin?

You often hear it said that we pay big dividends and our own published annual statements are often used against us as seeming proof. Do you know that for every dollar of dividends paid the banks pay ninety cents in taxes?

The fact is that while by law $100 is the par value of bank stock the average price at which the banks have sold their shares is $163, of which $100 has gone to Capital Account and $63 to Reserve. In addition, during the scores of years the Chartered Banks have been in business, earnings of $29 per share — instead of being paid out in dividends to shareholders — have been transferred to Reserve to add to the protection of bank depositors.

The total of a shareholder's investment is, therefore, on the average $192 per share. So an $8 dividend per share is a payment of only just over four per cent on the money invested.

Now we have dealt with taxes, earnings, costs and dividends. We have shown that banks operate upon a much smaller margin of profit than other lines of business.

We want to bring it home that the bank branch is a part of the community — that is true in the strongest sense. Besides giving a valuable service, banks maintain offices and staffs in scores of Alberta communities. They give opportunity of employment and a start in life to young people who take an active part in community affairs.

As a customer of public utilities, your local bank buys water, light, gas, power and fuel. It pays local taxes which go to the support of schools and hospitals and municipal institutions. It is on the job the year around, sharing your problems and taking its place as a good citizen.

And let me say that apart from their share of Dominion Government taxes — apart from any reserve for bad accounts, the Alberta Branches of Canada's Chartered Banks spent last year in taxes to the Provincial and Municipal — in such things as wages, goods and other services, the huge sum of $3,000,139 to carry on business in Alberta. That was purchasing power for Alberta — and that money was not created out of nothing.

Notice was received from Mr. A. Meredith, Secretary-Treasurer of the Village of Viking of an intended meeting in Viking on Thursday, September 23rd, 1937, for the purpose of appointing delegates to a meeting in Killam in connection with electric rates and, on motion by Coun. ## Reduced Rail Fares For Thanksgiving

WINNIPEG, Man.—Special low rail fares will be in effect between all stations in Canada for the Thanksgiving day long week-end according to an announcement by R. Creelman, passenger traffic manager, Canadian National Railways. Tickets at the low fare of single fare and one-quarter for the round trip will be on sale from Friday noon October 8th, until 2 p.m. Monday, October 11th. If there is no train service on Friday afternoon, tickets will be sold for the Friday morning train. All tickets will be good to return leaving destination up to midnight of Tuesday, October 12th.

These low fare tickets will be honored in all classes of accommodation and, as Thanksgiving week-end will be the last long week-end holiday before the Christmas vacation, the railway is looking forward to a large volume of traffic between local points.

Will Reduce Car Licenses Oct. 1st

First reduction of passenger car licenses under the new license year plan, which opened last April 1, will become effective on October 1, according to announcement at Edmonton by Hon. B. C. Manning, Provincial Secretary.

Those applying for car licenses on October 1 and thereafter will be given a 40 per cent reduction on the amount of the annual license. The new license taken out at this time will be good until March 31, 1938.

Owners turning in their car license plates at the end of this year (1937) will be given a 20 per cent rebate on their annual license fee. The absolute "dead-line" for turning in plates in order to obtain this rebate will be January 10, 1938. January 11 will be too late.

Those taking out licenses after January 1, possibly through having bought a new car, will be sold a license good for the three months' period ending March 31. This license may be bought at one-quarter of the annual license fee. As the license year opens on April 1, a new license would have to be secured at that time.

Another change this year has been the reduction in motor truck licenses which became effective on September 1, one month earlier than the first reduction for motor car licenses.

Officials of the Alberta Motor Association, which long advocated the change in the license year, have expressed confidence that this change will have splendid results.

MISS LOVE HOSTESS AT BRIDAL SHOWER

On Friday evening last, a surprise shower was held at the home of Miss E. Love in honor of Mrs. G. E. Turner, a recent bride.

During the first part of the evening, all present enjoyed several hands of bridge, after which the guest of honor was the recipient of many useful and beautiful presents.

A delightful lunch was served by the hostess before the evening drew to a close, with all wishing Mrs. Turner much happiness in her married life.

Town Couple Hold Family Re-Union

A family re-union was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Stuart last week and the first part of this week when Bill was host to his brother and sisters, in the persons of Clarence of Calgary, Mrs. John Smith of Chelan, Sask., Mrs. Henry Hooper of Didsbury, Mrs. Warren Peterson of Los Angeles, Calif., and their respective families, and Mrs. Ray Johnson of Proctor, B.C.

On Friday evening the family sat down to a sumptuous dinner at 6:30 p.m., when, if all had been able to attend, they would have numbered 84.

In addition to the immediate relatives present, Mrs. Peterson, mother of Warren Peterson and her grandfather Miss Fern Stinson were also in attendance, and The Star joins with their friends in wishing this family many more happy reunions.

Gas Consumption Above Average

More evidence of the importance of the oil industry has assumed in the transportation industry of the nation, is seen in the periodic reports of the Dominion bureau of statistics.

Gasoline consumption in Canada during February was 7,000,000 imperial gallons or 28.9 per cent higher and in January 6, 100,000 gallons, or 21.9 per cent higher than during corresponding months of last year. Some of the provinces this year showed increases in consumption several times over the consumption last year. Prince Edward Island increased nearly 100 per cent in February and in January nearly 400 per cent over corresponding months of last year.

New Brunswick increased 92 per cent in February and 122.6 per cent in January. Ontario, the largest gasoline consuming province, increased 26 per cent in February and 25.5 per cent in January.

Double Feature At The Theatre

"Salute to Valor," the picture eagerly awaited by millions of Canadians is here at last and will be showing at the Elite theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

It shows authentic pictures of the Vimy celebration and other "shows" were taken at Vimy in England and Scotland to work in the thread of the plot which was being interviewed. It dramatizes the return of the Canadian troops; it perpetuates the memory of an episode in history in which Canadians had played a great part and it emphasizes the popularity of a young king who had just recently ascended the throne.

Along with this amazing picture will be seen "Thunder in the City," starring Edward G. Robinson.

A. M. Huston Dies After Long Illness

With McLeod's Parlor in charge, the funeral will be held from the United church today (Wednesday) and interment will be made in the Wainwright cemetery.

Vegetables to Be Sent To Stricken Districts

A meeting was held in the Bank of Montreal on Saturday last at eight o'clock for the purpose of forming an organization to gather together from the district, sufficient vegetables to make up a carload to be sent to the dried-out parts of the province.

Those present were Messrs. J. Robinson, R. T. Wright, C. W. McBrice, H. Schilling, Rev. Armstrong, Mayor Middleton, A. Horne, G. Graham and T. Lane.

Theodora Goes Wild Showing at Theatre

A neatly contrived kickoff opens the yarn of "Theodora Goes Wild," a romantic comedy which plays at the Elite next week-end. In Lynfield Zidler Waterbury of the one-horse town's paper announces serialization of "Slimed Against," a sexy best seller. The club women, led by Michael, who makes life on potatoes or other vegetables to donate are requested to notify any of the men above mentioned, or whose names are subsequently added to the committee giving particulars as to the quantity and kind of vegetables to be donated and when they can deliver them. To those who are kind enough to donate it is suggested that it would help the committee if the vegetables could be brought in on the dates when the car will be on track. That is the 6th and 7th of October when they can be loaded right on the car. Those who might find it inconvenient to make deliveries on those dates may bring in their donations any time and deliver them at the warehouse in the rear of Mr. R. T. Wright's Shop and Saddlery shop, as Mr. Wright has very kindly offered his premises for this purpose. Farmers and others are advised that if sacks are not available potatoes can be delivered and loaded into the car or into the warehouse in bulk.

Mr. Robinson was appointed in charge of car loading and it is hoped that any who are able will give Mr. Robinson assistance when asked.

Bank Montreal Crop Report

In the Prairie Provinces favourable weather has been helpful in threshing operations, which are rapidly nearing completion, except in northern Alberta where harvesting has been delayed. The Dominion Government's preliminary estimate gives the yield of wheat at 164,000,000 bushels, divided as follows: Alberta 76,000,000 bushels, Saskatchewan 55,000,000 bushels and Manitoba 33,000,000 bushels.

In Manitoba wheat yields are above the average but grades will be lower than last year. Wheat yields in Saskatchewan are exceptionally high, with the grain showing a high grade. In Alberta, except in the southeastern portion of the Province, the wheat crop is generally satisfactory in yield and quality. In Quebec Province, threshing of grain is well advanced and satisfactory returns are indicated. Apples are a good average crop, prospects for root crops continue favourable, and tobacco is above average in yield and quality. In Ontario spring grains were affected by excessive moisture and yields were below those anticipated. Fodder crops have been abundant, crops of fruit good, and the yield of blue-cured tobacco the largest to date. In British Columbia, crops of hay, tomatoes, potatoes, hops, roots, corn, fodder, and of all fruits except peaches, are highly satisfactory, with grain yields slightly below average. In the Maritime Provinces, grain crops on the whole are fairly satisfactory and good average yields are expected from potatoes and other roots. Owing to losses from heavy gales, it is doubtful if the Annapolis Valley apple crop will equal that of 1936, 1937 and 1938.

Pave 400 Miles Alberta Roads

Giving fresh impetus to the movement to attract tourists to this province in larger numbers, Hon. W. A. Pallow, Minister of Public Works, announced recently at Edmonton, that the government plans a 400-mile hard surfacing program next year.

On the cost basis of $2500 per mile at the outside, the program will involve an expenditure of $1,000,000. When next year's program is completed, this province will have a total of some 700 miles of hard-surfaced roads, said the minister.

The minister said that with the exception of a 65-mile stretch from Carleton Place to Deer, next year would be all likelihood see a hard-surfaced road from the international boundary to Edmonton.

The minister's announcement was welcomed by officials of the Alberta Motor Association, which has urged for years the absolute need of hard surfacing of Alberta roads.

Undoubtedly completion of the proposed program will see an amazing increase in the number of motor tourists visiting this province.

A flood of tourists means more business for the farmers of the province, for those engaged in commercial pursuits, for almost everyone directly or indirectly involved in trading activities in Alberta.

Tourists have been passing up Alberta on account of the roads here, which means that the farmer has been losing a cash market that should be worth a lot to him. Building up of better roads means a wider market and higher returns to the producer.

HEALTH

A HEALTH SERVICE OF THE CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION AND LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES IN CANADA

YOUR DOCTOR

When an individual decides to become a doctor, he or she faces a long course of preparation. The principal requirement is education in subjects embracing the sciences upon which much of medicine is based. Because of the rapid development of all science during the past years, and the order to improve the training of those to whom human life is entrusted, the period of training has been considerably lengthened. When the medical graduate is given a license to practice, he or she is qualified to render certain definite services because of the knowledge acquired.

Your doctor knows the structure of the human body and how it functions when it is normal or in a state of health. Those who think of their doctor as one to call when there is illness in the home, forget that he knows about the well person. It is because of his knowledge of the normal body, and how it can be kept normal, that he is able to provide a service to humanity in keeping people well. It is for this reason that the periodic health examination of apparently well persons by the family physician is of great value. It is through such examinations that the doctor is able to give to his healthy clients the benefits of what he knows concerning the maintenance of health and the prevention of disease, consequently, the securing of more years of health.

Your doctor knows the early signs or symptoms of disease just as he knows what occurs in acute disease. He knows how to treat disease early in order to prevent the development of more serious conditions. He knows what the man or woman with weakened organs should and should not do. He knows all this, but unless he is given the chance to use his knowledge in the early stages of disease, he cannot help you.

Because of what your doctor knows, you should make full use of his knowledge to help you in keeping well, in the early care of illness as much, if not more, as in its serious consequences.

HINTS ON WINE MAKING

Wine making is a simple process. The grapes into which the unadulterated substances fall may be overcome by following a few simple rules. Cleanliness of utensils—Organisms other than the desired yeast adhering to dirty utensils present a menace to successful wine making. These undesirable organisms include wild yeasts, moulds and vinegar bacteria. If they are not destroyed, the moulds and wild yeasts will develop abnormal flavours, and the vinegar bacteria will convert the alcohol to acetic acid. It is of the utmost importance that all utensils that come in contact with the wine be quite clean and that they be boiled, if possible, before use.

Yeast for wine making—Various strains of yeast develop different amounts of alcohol and different flavours and bouquet. The maximum alcohol content which can be developed by natural fermentation is approximately 16 per cent. Wine yeasts are sometimes obtained by placing half a pound of raisins in a quart of water and leaving this mixture in a warm place for two or three days before adding it to the juice.

Yeast may also be obtained by saving the sediment or lees from the bottom of a satisfactory cask of wine. To save this material, it is placed on paper and dried at room temperature until it can be powdered. If it is placed in a tight bottle—so it should be—it can be kept for several years. If yeast of this type is to be used in a batch, it should be "revived" three or four days before it is needed. The reviving of this yeast consists of boiling a quart of water, cooling it to blood temperature, and adding the powdered yeast. After two or three days in a warm place, vigorous fermentation should result. This quart is sufficient to inoculate five gallons of wine.

Bread yeast may be used as a last resort, and if employed, one cake to five gallons is satisfactory.

The function of the yeast is to break down the sugar to alcohol and carbon dioxide, the alcohol dissolving in the solution while the carbon dioxide passes off in small bubbles. Thus, upon the cessation of bubbling fermentation is complete.

Amounts and addition of sugar—The amount of alcohol developed, and the sweetness of the wine depend directly on the amount of sugar in the juice. Yeasts cannot produce over 18 per cent alcohol as alcohol at this concentration usually prevents their growth. If sugar is still in the wine after this concentration is reached, it will be used for sweetening purposes. Generally speaking, 1 pound of sugar to 2 quarts of juice from thoroughly ripened fruit will produce a wine of the desired sweetness. If the juice is diluted with an equal volume of water, the sugar may be increased to 1 pound per quart. For a dry wine, only an amount of sugar which can be fermented should be added.

It is wise to divide the sugar required into four equal parts, one part to be added at a time. The first quart may be added when the juice is first separated from the pulp. After a few days, when the fermentation shows signs of slowing down or when the taste of the wine indicates that there is little sugar present, the second quart may be added. This may be continued until all the sugar has been used. The addition of sugar in small portions makes better fermentation possible and avoids the danger of making the wine too sweet. In other words, if the fermentation has practically stopped at the end of the third addition of sugar and the wine is still sufficiently sweet, the last quart of sugar should not be added.

General Procedure—The fruit is placed in an open keg or crock and mashed to a pulp, the yeast is then added and the container is covered with a clean cloth which is stretched around the rim to exclude dust, insects and micro-organisms. It is good practice to place the keg in a warm location 75 degrees to 90 degrees F. and stir the pulp once a day for a week. At the end of this time the juice is pressed or strained to the pulp and the sugar is added. If the juice has sufficient flavour and bouquet to be diluted, a volume of water equal to the volume of juice may be added. For best quality of wine, however, it is advisable to use only the pure juice.

For fermenting wine, after being removed from the pulp, may be returned to the crock or it may be placed in glass gallon jars. When kegs are used, they should be kept full to the bung hole. They are frequently sealed with a rubber or glass tube, the end of which fits tightly to the bung while the outer end is in water.

For further information, write to the Dominion Experimental Station, Summerland, B.C., to the Dominion Experimental Station, Kentville, N.S. or to the Horticultural Division, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, Ont.

QUEBEC PASTURE CONTESTS

The Department of Agriculture of Quebec has decided to encourage the economic use of fertilizers in the province and has organized, under the direction of the regional and district agronomists, pasture improvement contests in every county. These are conducted according to different plans, varied to suit conditions. The farmer and district agronomist together select the area to be fertilized, observing the percentage of good pasture plants, especially native wild white clover, in the herbage. Alongside and separated by a fence from the area to be fertilized another similar area is reserved untreated as a check. The farmer agrees to use a pasture fertilizer recommended by the provincial council and to manage the grazing according to the advice of the department. Further, he undertakes to note the effect of the fertilizing and the number of pasture days on each area and to cut down any tall grasses which may get out of control.

At the Deschambault Agricultural School Farm, too, S. J. Chagnon is showing the way in pasture fertilizing, and a large gathering of farmers, headed by Agriculture, met there in August to see the results. At Deschambault the fertilizing of pastures has been practised for the past six years, and the stock-carrying capacity has been vastly increased. In a recent report Mr. S. J. Chagnon stated that he had 63 acres of fertilized permanent pasture carrying over 90 head of cattle. The pastures, he said, give an abundance of nutritious food, rich in minerals and vitamins, during the summer, and enable the dairy cow to produce a large quantity of milk economically and without injury to their health. Besides, said Mr. Chagnon, these nutritive pastures improve the quality of the young livestock, without using supplementary concentrates. Another advantage, which he emphasizes, is the saving in stable feeding by reason of the earlier grazing in spring.

Author of "How to Win Friends and Influence People"
LEO TOLSTOY
He Was Ashamed of Having Written Two of The World's Greatest Novels

Here is a life-story as incredible as any tale out of the Arabian Nights. It's the story of a prophet who died in his own time—in 1910, to be exact—and who was so revered that for twenty years before he died an unbroken and unending stream of admirers made pilgrimages to his home in order to catch a glimpse of his face, hear the sound of his voice, or touch the hem of his garment. Friends came and lived in his house for years at a time and took down in shorthand every word that he uttered; even in the most casual conversation, and described in minute detail even the most trivial acts of his daily life. These records were then printed in huge volumes. Nearly 23,000 books—not 2300, 25,000, but 23,000 books—and 50,000 newspaper and magazine articles have been written about this man and his ideas; and his own writings fill 100 volumes—a gigantic amount of words for any man to have written. The story of his life is as colorful as some of his own novels. He was born in a forty-two room mansion, surrounded by wealth, cradled in the luxury of the old Russian aristocracy; yet in the last part of his life he gave away all of his lands, stripped himself of all his worldly goods, and died without a dollar in a lonely Russian railway station, surrounded by peasants. In his youth, he was a snob, walking with mincing steps and spending much of his time in the salons of Moscow; yet in his later life he dressed in the rough crude clothes of a Russian peasant, made his shoes with his own hands, tended his own short years 12,000,000 copies were a few years ago it was my privilege to know Tolstoy's youngest daughter in Paris. She acted as his secretary during the last years of his life and was with him when he died. She is living on a farm near Newton Square, Pennsylvania, and I learned from her own lips many of these facts about Tolstoy. Since that time, she has written a book about her father, "The Tragedy of Tolstoy". Truly Tolstoy's life was a tragedy, and the cause of his tragedy was his marriage. His wife loved luxury, but he despised it. She craved fame and the plaudits of society, but these frivolous things meant nothing whatever to him. She longed for money and riches, but he believed that wealth and private property were a sin. She believed in ruling by force, but he believed in ruling by love. And to make matters worse, she was consumed by a fierce and fiery jealousy. She detested his friends. She even drove her own daughter away from her home, and then rushed into Tolstoy's room and shot at the girl's picture with an air rifle. For years she nagged and scolded and screamed and abused him and, as he said, turned his home into a veritable hell because he insisted on giving the people of Russia the right to publish his books freely without paying him royalty. When he opposed her, she threw herself into fits of hysteria, rolling on the floor with a bottle of opium to her lips, swearing that she was going to kill herself and threatening to jump down the well. The Tolstoy were married almost half a century; and sometimes she knelt at his knees and implored him to read her the caustic, poignant love passages that he had written about her in his diary forty-eight years previously, when they were both madly in love with each other. As he read of those beautiful happy days that were now gone forever, both of them wept bitterly. Finally, when he was eighty-two years old, he was unable to endure the tragic unhappiness of his home any longer, so he fled from his wife on the night of October 21, 1910, fled into the cold darkness, not knowing whether he was going. Eleven days later he died of pneumonia in a railway station-house, saying, "God will arrange everything." His last words were, "To seek—always to seek."

EMANCIPATION

OF WOMEN

One vehement critic of women, Dr. Theobald, the well-known English obstetrician and author, says of a woman: "She copies the cooie woman of the Chinese bazaar in plucking her eyebrows, the Siamese peasant in bobbing her hair, the Arab in letting her nails grow like claws and painting them a hideous red, the courtesan in painting all the visible parts of her anatomy, she is so restless that she cannot sit peacefully at home; she cannot eat her meals without smoking, and is unhappy unless she is at a dance or the cinema."

"This daring indictment does not apply to the generality of women," is the opinion of Dr. J. W. S. McCullough, of the Health League of Canada. "Dr. Theobald must have been keeping bad company! But there have been great changes in the social and economic position of women since you and I were boys. Their former position as housekeeper and bearer of children is materially altered. They are no longer complete dependents on their men folk. The English writer is of the opinion that female economic independence has increased the maternal morality. To meet this menace there is a strong movement in England to restrict women's hours of labour for it is well known that long hours of work have a baneful influence on pregnancy. Dr. Theobald also attacks competitive sports for women."

These, however, as pointed out by the Canadian doctor, are comparatively minor. The out-door exercise permitted the modern woman, the clothes she wears and the mental relaxation from the household cares appear to have improved the health of the fair sex. In the main they are stronger and healthier in this than in any former generation. For example, a single anetion, chorion, seen since in have yet appeared in young women. At no time in the history of the North American Continent have women had better complexions, better proportions or greater beauty than at present.

To maintain these desirable conditions, women should remember in their newly-found freedom that moderation in exercise, in sports, in dancing, in eating, smoking and drinking, is essential.

WHY

WORRY?

How many people we all know who spend their lives in worrying about things that never happen. Worrying is the most fruitless of all human occupations. Worrying about something which has not yet happened will not avert it, and nine times out of ten the things we are worrying about never come off.

Worrying has its roots in fear. Really courageous people do not give way to worry. Most worrying is due to too lively an imagination. Those who indulge in worrying are usually soft-hearted, sentimental folks who do not have a realistic outlook on life.

Most worries have an overly strong sense of personal responsibility for other people. Their high sense of duty leads them to fear that they have in some way been remiss in their obligations to others. Many have worried themselves into premature graves. Whatever is wrong with the bodily machinery is made worse by worrying about it. There are very few things which can happen to anyone that are worth worrying about. To advise people to stop worrying is not to advise them to take no precautions against the future. Careful, fore-sighted people are seldom worriers, they face the present with a stout heart and the future with the calm assurance that all the world expects of anyone is to do the best he can. And they let the dead past bury its dead.

FIRST INSTALLMENT
The massive, steel-barred gates of Jarillo Penitentiary swung back disclosing a cavernous, shadowy, hopeless arch beyond. From those arches walked a man, a slender, wiry man of slightly more than medium height.

His shoulders were not of extraordinary width, but they were erect, flat, and packed with smoothly co-ordinating muscles. His chest was arched and deep, his waist lean.

His face, from the nose upward, was of a young man, not over thirty years in age at most. That nose was straight, thin and sensitive of nostril. The eyes were of steely gray, clear with the tone of perfect health. But there was something hard about them—a glimmer, far in the depths, like a living, never fading flame.

Nests of tiny wrinkles spread from the corners of them, telling of long years of facing strong sunlight, hot winds and limitless distances. The short, crisp hair beneath his floppy and battered sombrero was dark brown, slightly curly and with a dusting of gray at the temples.

It was the mouth and jaw which made a cold, stern mask of what was otherwise a reasonably amiable countenance. The jaw was lean and strong, the mouth wide and hinting of whimsicality, were it not for the sensitive lip set in a hard line of repression. Besides the worn sombrero, his garb was made up of faded shirt and jeans, and a pair of battered, high-heeled boots which showed signs of long chase. This, on that sunny, early spring morning, was Edward (Slim) Loyale, ex-convict Number 5214, with eighteen months served of a three-year sentence, and with eighteen months of parole ahead of him, before he would once more be an entirely free man.

A closer observer than the stolid guard who had opened the gates would have noticed that Slim Loyale was trembling as he left the prison behind him. This quiver, which traversed the entire length of his body, had something of a strange, exalting ecstasy about it.

A captive bird, freed of its cage, might have acted the same. A wild stallion, surrounded by the high walls of a man-made corral, might have lifted its head to gaze long at the dim, mist-shrouded ring of some great mesa country, its nostrils dilated and quivering, just as Slim Loyale's nostrils dilated and quivered now.

Slim's pace quickened. He took notice of the sun-bleached, squalid little town of Jarillo a quarter of a mile to his left. Nor did he once look back at the sprawling bulk of the prison, which crouched like some unwinking, headless, dead beast in the immensity of the plain.

Slim's face was to the north, and his eyes never wavered from a point out there where a dim, violet-line of saw-edged mountains hung against the horizon, nebulous and beckoning.

Inside of an hour the prison and the town of Jarillo had fallen far behind him. He was entering now a slightly rolling country of chemical and manzanita. With strange abandon Slim forced his way through the brush. As he walked he caught handfuls of pungent chemicals, beat in to his face and sniffing with little, quick sighs of joy.

His lean cheeks, slightly pale from long months away from the sun, glowed with the quickened beat of his stirring blood. In a little meadow thick-grown with ray-wed and still a little damp from the night dew, he kicked about with his feet, inhaling deep of the keen, wild ooze, which arose.

Then as a long-eared jack-rabbit hopped sedately away and a tiny, pert brush wren twittered at him, he laughed, low and deep, and for a moment the hard mask fell away from him. He was a boy again, just a boy going home—going home.

The sun arched to the zenith, passed it, swung low into the west. Still Slim Loyale plodded onward, a little wearily now, for many miles lay behind him and he had been long hours without food or water. But the glow in his eyes was still strong, and his thin face still eager.

For over two miles he had been breathing a long, gradual slope, matted with brush clumps and broken here and there by rough spines of rock. Abruptly he reached the crest.

Before him the ridge fell away in dusty slides to a wide-spreading basin, spotted with groups of shimmering, silver-barked sycamores. A line of scrub willow twisted from east to west through the basin, commencing from one narrow gorge to plunge from sight into a like one.

Slim paused, his eyes flitting keenly over the country below. Off there to his left, in an elbow of the creek, a faint haze of bluish smoke was rising. Slim went down a handy slide in great, falling strides and hurried on along the edge of the willows. A moment later he stepped into a little clearing, carpeted with green and rimmed with a wall of willow.

In that clearing a fire glowed, and over it crouched a tall, gaunt, leathery-faced old-timer, with keen, blue eyes and faded hair and mustache. At one edge of the clearing three horses crouched lazily at the succulent grass. Near the fire was a heap of dung.

"Hello, Dakota," said Slim quietly, though his voice trembled slightly. "Faithful as ever, I see."

The man by the fire straightened quickly and turned. "Slim," he ejaculated. "Kid!" Then with three quick strides he was over to Slim and was wringing his hand, his free arm glowing around the young fellow's shoulders.

For a long minute neither of them spoke again. A strange mistiness dimmed Slim Loyale's eyes, and even Dakota Blue was winking fast. Slim cleared his throat. "Grub ready?" he asked gruffly. "I'm damn near starved. It's a long walk back from—hell."

Glad of the chance to hide his emotion, Dakota Blue turned to the fire and jabbed at the glowing coals with a stick. "Be ready in a jiffy, Slim. The coffee is about to turn over and there's a painful lot of waiting to go on."

Slim nodded and went over to the creek. Flat on its moist, sweet rim he lay, his face buried in the sparkling, chill depths. When he had drunk his fill he stripped off his shirt and had a good wash. Then he went back to the fire where a black frying-pan was sizzling, and Dakota was setting out tin plates and cups on a piece of tarpaulin.

"Got yore letter two weeks ago," said Dakota casually. "I rode in here to the basin yesterday mornin'. I'd have come down—there for sure, only I knew yuh'd want to be alone for a few hours and get the feel of the earth under yuh once more. Well, light in, Slim; there's plenty of it."

They ate in silence. When the meal was over, Dakota tossed Slim a sack of tobacco and a book of prayers. "Keep it," he said. "I brought plenty."

Slim rolled and lit his cigarette and leaned back against the heap of dung. "Now tell me," he commanded, "everything."

Dakota rolled a smoke himself before answering. "Things ain't changed much," he drawled finally. "Sarg Brockwell is still Sarg Brockwell. Jigger Starbuck is still sheriff, an' Spud Dillon is still doin' business at the same ole stand."

"I suppose crime disappeared about the same time I did?" murmured Slim, his low voice bitter.

"No," said Dakota softly. "It ain't disappeared. Slim. In the past month the Vamo stage has been held up twice, and the Dot H Dot has lost about a hundred head more cattle. Some folks in Pinnacle have been wondering a heap if they didn't make a bad mistake, when they sent yuh up."

Slim Loyale laughed curtly. "They shoulda done their wonderin' a year and a half ago. How's things at the ole Circle L, Dakota?"

"Bout as usual, since yore daddy died, the spread is kinda empty-like. But yore cows—they're yores now, yuh know—well, they keep right on havin' calves. Yore pretty well fixed with this world's goods, Slim."

"Yeah, but a pauper with reputation. Did—did Dada finger that I was guilty, Dakota?"

Dakota Blue smirked. "Hell, no! Why not a week before he died that sanctimonious law-shark, George Arthur, came to see him and made some crack about it? Well, too bad that yuh shoulda felt foul of the law."

"Man! I thought ole Bart Loyale was gonna crawl right outa bed, sick as he was, an' scalp that lawyer right there. 'Damn yore law!' yelled Bart. 'That boy is innocent an' yuh know it. Arthur, yuh crooked, lynx-polecat! Get outa here, 'fore yore packed out on a board.' Don't worry Slim; yore daddy stood behind yuh to his last breath."

A long silence fell. Slim's chin was on his chest. Presently he stirred. "Yuh seen Mona Hall lately?"

Dakota nodded. "Saw her day before yesterday. She asked about yuh."

PROTECTION THROUGH SEALING

Glass packed foods have assumed a trimmer beauty and a greater practical and economic value. A new process technically known as vapor-vacuum sealing, which hermetically seals foods packed in glass has accomplished this triple feat.

But what does this process do for Mrs. Consumer? This, after all is the important thing. First of all, foods packed in glass under this process are definitely more attractive, for this type of seal permits the use of a cap with a baked enamel lining that gives a neat tailored appearance to the bottle. And the cap, because of its particular kind of lining, imparts no foreign odor to the food it protects. These caps, unlike other caps, can be removed easily. Lifting with the flat side of a table knife does the trick. No damage is done the cap when it is removed which means that the efficiency of the lid is not impaired and it serves as a competent covering until the contents of the jar have been used.

More important than beauty of package, however, is the protection this type of seal affords all foods that come under the magic of its seal. Let's consider what it does for mayonnaise which is one of the most perishable products packed in glass.

Under this hermetic seal all air from the headspace of the jar is removed, and a vacuum is created which takes effect when the cap is applied. Both headspace and cap have been made sterile. Naturally without air in the headspace and a sterile closure, rancidity and discoloration of the mayonnaise are prevented. Possibility of separation of the mayonnaise is reduced because the product does not become old, and old products separate more easily than fresh. The fresh home-made flavors are retained.

All foods packed in glass under the vapor-vacuum seal after it is placed on a pie. Press edges together with fork dipped in flour, then with sharp knife trim off surplus pastry. Brush with milk or beaten white egg if a slight glaze is desired. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F. to 450 degrees F.) 10 to 15 minutes; then decrease heat to moderate (350 degrees F.) and bake until pastry is browned and filling is done.

SOME SANDWICH SUGGESTIONS

When in search of an unusual filling for the lunch-box sandwich, try combining one part orange juice with

2 1/2 cups sifted flour

1/4 teaspoon double-acting baking powder

1/4 teaspoon salt

2 1/2 cups cold shortening

1 1/2 cup cold water (about)

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt and sift again. Cut in shortening until pieces are about size of small peas. Add water (preferably ice water), a small amount at a time, mixing lightly with fork. Handle as little as possible. Wrap in waxed paper and chill thoroughly before rolling. Roll out on slightly floured board.

Line a 9-inch pie plate with 1/4 recipe of pie crust rolled 1/4 inch thick. Moisten edges of pastry with cold water. Fill pie shell. Roll other half of pastry 1/4 inch thick. Fold half the pastry back on other half. With sharp knife make several slits to permit escape of steam. Place upper crust on filled lower one opening out folded half after it is placed on pie. Press edges together with fork dipped in flour, then with sharp knife trim off surplus pastry. Brush with milk or beaten white egg if a slight glaze is desired. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F. to 450 degrees F.) 10 to 15 minutes; then decrease heat to moderate (350 degrees F.) and bake until pastry is browned and filling is done.

1/4 teaspoon salt

2 1/2 cups cold shortening

1 1/2 cup cold water (about)

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt and sift again. Cut in shortening until pieces are about size of small peas. Add water (preferably ice water), a small amount at a time, mixing lightly with fork. Handle as little as possible. Wrap in waxed paper and chill thoroughly before rolling. Roll out on slightly floured board.

Line a 9-inch pie plate with 1/4 recipe of pie crust rolled 1/4 inch thick. Moisten edges of pastry with cold water. Fill pie shell. Roll other half of pastry 1/4 inch thick. Fold half the pastry back on other half. With sharp knife make several slits to permit escape of steam. Place upper crust on filled lower one opening out folded half after it is placed on pie. Press edges together with fork dipped in flour, then with sharp knife trim off surplus pastry. Brush with milk or beaten white egg if a slight glaze is desired. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F. to 450 degrees F.) 10 to 15 minutes; then decrease heat to moderate (350 degrees F.) and bake until pastry is browned and filling is done.

Orange juice, by the way, comes especially well with dried fruits, such as chopped raisins, figs, dates and with chopped nuts to make flavorful fillings.

HOW'S YOUR BUSINESS ?

It is not a mere coincidence that newspaper advertising volume continues to grow and that business continues to expand. There is business to be had in an ever-swelling volume and the wise business man knows that the way to get it is through newspaper advertising. The concerns that had the greatest increase in volume last year were those that did the greatest amount of newspaper advertising.

Newspaper advertising pays today as never before because the consumer knows that steadily rising prices of consumer commodities makes keen buying imperative if the budget is not to be stretched too far, and reads the advertisements.

Newspaper advertising has played a great part in creating modern civilization. It has brought about large-scale production and lower prices, thus benefiting both producer and consumer. It will play an even larger role in the post depression days. There is a pent-up market for goods today that can be turned into mass sales by the newspaper advertiser, and the people are reading the ads as never before to determine where they can spend their money to the best advantage.

MODERN WOMEN

CHARL' ORMOND WILLIAMS
President of National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc.

Thirteen years have been spent by Miss Marie Reimer in pursuit of one scientific fact, the mystery of the influence of sunlight on unsaturated compounds. Miss Reimer is head of the department of chemistry at Harvard College. A few years ago she went to Java to study the influence of the tropical sun on certain sensitive, highly reactive substances, but it was a disappointing experience because the strong sunlight decomposed the compounds. She found the clear air of California with its milder sun a much kinder influence. Miss Reimer sees numerous opportunities for women students, particularly in the work leading to medical laboratories.

How to divide your income into three parts has much to do with success and give, has been worked out by Miss Florence Barnard of Brookline, Mass., an expert on money management. Individuals should save twenty per cent of their income, spend seventy per cent and give away ten per cent, according to her plan. Her children can be taught this rule, she says, and the plan, which is being introduced in schools throughout the country, can be applied equally well to any income. Miss Barnard is educational director of the American Association of Economic Education.

How to make women more air conscious is a part of Miss Helen Stanbury's job. She is director of the women's traffic division of one of the big air lines and is the only woman executive in the American air transport industry, at least at the present writing. Innovations come about so quickly that any day another woman, or several women, may share this honor with her. She says her job is to make women understand that an air trip is not a major operation but more like a matinee.

A controversy over which of Governor Peter Stuyvesant's legs was artificial has been settled by the Park Department and the Municipal Art Commission of New York in order to let Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney proceed with a statue of the director general of New Amsterdam for the Stuyvesant Statue Committee. His right leg was wooden, according to accepted authority. Mrs. A. Barton Hepburn is chairman of the Stuyvesant Statue Committee and the project is being sponsored by the Netherlands-American Foundation. No one seems to know just why several people inclined to the belief that Stuyvesant's left leg was the missing one.

CANCER OF THE MOUTH

The mouth is one part of the body where a cancer cannot easily hide. Sores on the lips are obvious not only to the patient but to his friends. Growths inside the mouth can be felt with the tongue at a very early stage. And yet there is an average delay of ten months between the appearance of a growth and the first visit to a doctor's office. When the growth first appears it has nothing horrifying about it. The patient feels perhaps a little roughness in the mouth. He may think he has a small wart. Very often he will say there is a "canker sore." There is no pain, no real discomfort. Time passes. The sore on the lip does not heal; or the wart in the mouth gets a little larger; or the lump on the tongue begins to get in the way. Now there is sometimes a little bleeding but still nothing has begun to hurt. The patient is a little anxious but would rather not see a doctor in case he should suggest an operation. And anyhow this is a busy time; in a month or so it would be more convenient to go to the hospital. Time still passes. At last there is an ache and the lump is tender to the touch. Little lumps have begun to grow in the neck. Pain drives the patient to the doctor in the end. But by that time it is too late. Treated early no less than 95 per cent of cancers of the lip can be permanently cured. Cancers of the tongue are more rapidly dangerous but at least half of them can be completely cured if only they are taken in time.

ODDS AND ENDS FROM THE GARDEN

When the sweet corn gets down to the nubbins and there are only fragments of this and that vegetable left in the garden it's time to can soup and salad mixtures for winter use.

Salad mixtures are best canned in a slightly sweetened vinegar solution. The vinegar adds to the preservation of the vegetables as well as making them pleasantly tart for salads. Lima beans, tiny flowerettes of cauliflower, neat cubes of new turnip, slices of baby carrot, threads of green pepper, whole kernels of sweet corn and late peas make a colorful mixture. However, you can, of course, concoct any mixture you may fancy—or have in your garden.

Speaking of salads, if you haven't put up a few jars of pickle beets, try and do it now. There's no garnish more attractive in winter than slices of crimson beets. Vegetable and meat salads gain immeasurably from this simple accessory. They're good for the Christmas holidays and work in beautifully again February for St. Valentine's parties as well as one of the national colors for patriotic parties.

Fruit mixtures are good to can for salads and fruit cups. A combination of peaches and pears and cantaloupe balls is good to use just as is or you can add fresh fruits such as oranges and bananas when you make your salad or fruit cup.

When you're making a vegetable soup, the combinations are innumerable. Everything including onion goes into a vegetable soup. Celery is good in the soup concoction but fresh celery is better in the salad. The same way with onion. Add minced onion or a few drops of onion juice to the salad when you mix it for serving.

If you can soup and salad mixtures by the hot-pack or pressure cooker methods, proceed the mixture for the length of time required by the vegetable needing the longest processing period.

A delicious way to serve a mixture of vegetables is in a rich cream sauce in a crisp cheese tart. This makes a delectable luncheon dish to serve with broiled bacon and a fresh vegetable salad for this time of year.
